WORLD WAR II BOMBER CELEBRATES 75 YEARS OF FLIGHT WITH APPEARANCE AT THE 381ST BOMB GROUP REUNION

SPRING, TEXAS – Texas Raiders is one of only twelve remaining flyable B-17 Bombers from World War II and is the most recent to emerge from an eight-year intensive restoration in Houston, Texas. This previously award-winning Flying Fortress will complete its twenty-one day Midwestern Tour celebrating the 75th Anniversary of the first B-17 flight, with an appearance at the 381st Bomb Group's Reunion at Nashville Airport. Texas Raiders, painted in the colors of the 381st Bomb Group, will reunite the veterans and their families with this significant part of their history at the reunion August 9th through the 13th, 2010.

In 2001, Texas Raiders was required to undergo an FAA mandated Airworthiness Directive (AD) which found damage to the wing spars and associated structures. Following a nearly complete dismantling of the aircraft and eight years of corrosion repair and restoration, the B-17 Flying Fortress became airworthy in October, 2009. To date, over $600,000 of donations and sponsorship monies have been spent along with nearly 250,000 volunteer and contract hours of maintenance to bring the Bomber back into flying condition. Although the non-profit 501-(c)-3 organization, the Commemorative Air Force (CAF) is the owner of this vintage Bomber, the maintenance, restoration and operation is assigned to the Gulf Coast Wing, an all volunteer CAF membership group. It is estimated that the cost to operate this vintage Bomber is over $2,500 per flying hour.

Texas Raiders was delivered to the U.S. Army Air Force July 12, 1945 and became a member of the Commemorative Air Force's Ghost Squadron in September of 1967 and thereby assigned to the Gulf Coast Wing in 1971. Her last public flying mission prior to the restoration was November, 2001, when the National D-day Museum in New Orleans, LA celebrated its Grand Opening. She has appeared in two movies, Ike The War Years and Brady's Escape, one PBS Documentary Honor Squadrons and two television commercials.

Collecting, restoring and flying warbirds for more than half a century, the Commemorative Air Force ranks as one of the largest private air forces in the world. The CAF is dedicated to honoring American Military Aviation through flight, exhibition and remembrance with a flying museum of classic military aircraft. A non-profit educational association, the CAF has approximately 9,000 members and a fleet of almost 160 airplanes representing more than 60 different types – including planes from several foreign countries and military conflicts since WWII.
